

April 9th 1937.

Memories of Mrs Emma Bowling Speak, during & after the war between the States. There is always a feast after a famine. People didn't have such an easy time before Lee surrendered ^{to Grant}, April 9th 1865, at Appomattox Court House, when the women & children had to spin out cotton thread to make the cloth then weave the cloth in home made looms. Weave about 30-111 yards a piece. Weave about from 4 to sunrise or as soon as they could see, have to tie the threads. When they broke, but before starting to weave the cloth, the thread was to be put on spools made of large canes about 6 inch long, & the thread was put on them about 30 yds on each spool. These spools were put in a frame on little round sticks, the spool standing straight up. One thread taken from each spools held in hand till all was gathered to gather, then warped as on what is called warping bars, warped off.
a thread beam, on the back of the loom scatervd along, then farther in front. There was something called harness made of thread hanging straight up & down with nots, called eyes hanging

That every thread was put through one would sit on one side & another on the other side, one would hand the thread by thread and the one on the opposite side would draw the threads through with a hook until all was pulled through the harness. Then through what was called a Sleigh, made of reids ^{out of cane} & on to a breast beam. 2 treadles to work with which the harness & steigh was so fixed that when one treadle was mashed it would open the threads & throw the shuttle through. there was something called a batteron used by both hands with reid sleigh which rocked the threads together, then mash another treadle & it would open for another shuttle to go through every time the shuttle passed through thread by thread was rocked together. The shuttle had little grills filled with thread called filling. & the thread that was put in the loom & through harness & sleigh was called warp. & so many other things to be done before the cloth was ready to sew with fingers, it is too numerous to try to explain. That was apart of the way the homespun was made to make those home spun dresses the southern ladies wore.

The women had to nit all the stockings they wore and all the socks the men wore also all the children wore. It seemed to people to be laziness to go without stockings, so no one went without, as the women kept plenty nit for their families, no matter how large the families were. They made almost every thing they wore and ate then, except coffee & that they didn't have, except a substitute for 4 years, as there wasn't any thing used out side of the Confederate States, & coffee did not grow in them. The people parched rye rice meal grits & etc. and ground it in coffee mills and drank that in the place of coffee. They boiled these substitutes like it was coffee, in coffee pots. The boys too young to be in war & the older men that was too old to be in war made all the shoes that was worn, & all wore shoes. After the war, Rev. John Preacher, Mrs. Morris Wilson's father made as neat a man or woman shoe as any one would like to look at. He is Mrs. Robbie Wilson Sanders' Grand Father also her other sisters & brothers Grand Father. The people grew wheat, & ground & bolted the wheat in to flour pretty & white. They also grew rice & beat the chaff off in mortars, with wooden pestles, & fanned the chaff with home made fans, the rice when finished was as white as it is now by mach-

The people during the war, they also grew sugar cane ground the cane boiled the juice in large boilers. to syrup, & sugar. the sugar was brown. They grew corn potatoes, peas, peanuts, & etc, raised hogs, cows, horses, mules, sheep, goats, turkeys, chickens, gees, ducks, & so on. But every body had to work to keep the wheels turning. The mother worked day & part of night to keep their children in school, all they possibly could. my eldest Sister Susan Dowling then, but married G. A. Tidwell after the war. She taught part of each of the 4 years ^{of} of war. & was little over 5 years old ^{then}, but went to school with & to her, as long as she taught. She taught Mr. Ralff Lightsy's Grand mother ^{her} 2 sisters & one brother. They were Misses Clem, Rosa, & Lizz, Mathews, & Dock Mathew was married ^{to Langford}. Mr. Lightsy's mother, & sisters & fathers that was too old ^{to be married}, and more. & when Sherman's army came & destroyed near all their labours, that they could find, & left starvation on the land, & a lot, what the poor soldiers work for before they went to war. This was the famine. Now comes ^{the} feast. The year 1865 was the most fruitful year I had ever known every fruit tree vine or bush was loaded with good things to eat.

Fruit trees didn't blight, & die, then & almost every family had fruit trees, plaches, apples, plums, grapes, pomegranates, walnuts, hickory, etc., etc. all these fruits, were in abundance. It seemed every thing that was planted just prospered. & soon had watermelons, cantalups, & all the vegetables that we wanted & to spare, we got hold of a few hens & gained lots of chickens. Every body seemed to take every thing to God in prayer, & the great feast was friendship with all the people. They were kind to each other, friendly neighbours & every body seemed to love each other. After a hard day's work people would meet at each other's houses & have prayer service and giving thanks to our good Lord & Savior that things were no worse than they were. In the fall of 1865, my Eldert brother Rev W. H. Dowling & Eldert sister Susan Dowling, got up a school of 52 pupils, said to be a pay school, but no one had any thing much to pay with but they taught with as much interest as if they were getting a great salary. I had 4 brothers & 4 sisters of us. 4 & 6, out of nine were School teachers. Rev J. F. preacher as before mentioned. He was not only a shoe maker but he was a minister of the gospel, a good school teacher & a fine farmer & a mill right. This is just a sketch as many memories.

A song composed & sang by The Southern girls, during the confederate war.

I know I am a Southern girl,
and I glory in the name,
and boasted with more glee,-

Than glittering wealth and fame.

Hurrah, hurrah, for the sunny South,
So dear.

Three cheers for the homespun dress. The southern ladies wear,

My homespun dress is plain,
I know, my hat is palmetto, too, but then it shows what Southern girls, for Southern rights will do.

Corus.

Scorn to wear a bit of silk,
A bit of northern lace.

but make our homespun dresses up,
and wear them with much grace.

Corus.

We sent our sweethearts to the war,
but dear girls never mind,
They are fighting for the Southern rights, and the girl they left behind
